

Cookie Policy

This document describes how we use cookies and similar technologies and your choices regarding them.

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small text file stored on your device, allowing us to provide our services better. To learn more about cookies and similar technologies, visit <https://www.allaboutcookies.org/>.

Why do we use cookies?

We use both our own and third-party cookies to do things like:

- provide the Services
- allow you to log in to the Services
- remember your settings and preferences
- maintain security
- understand how you use the Services, and be able to customise and promote the Services based on this information.

What cookies do we use?

Necessary: Necessary cookies help us make the Services usable by enabling essential functions, such as page navigation and access to secure areas. The Services cannot function without these cookies.

Functionality and Preferences: These cookies allow us to record information related to your choices, which helps us tailor the Services to suit your needs and requests.

Analytics and Statistics: These cookies allow monitoring of visits and traffic sources and how users interact with the site by collecting and reporting information anonymously.

Marketing: These are usually placed by third parties to allow users to be tracked from one site to another. The purpose of these cookies is to display ads relevant to a specific person's interests.

How can you manage cookies?

You can withdraw your consent or change your preferences concerning our use of cookies at any time. If you no longer wish to receive cookies, you can use your browser settings to accept, refuse and delete cookies. To do this, follow the instructions provided by your browser.

Please note that if you set your browser to refuse cookies, you may not be able to use all features of the Services.
